"This simple slate headstone marks the grave of Fr. Richard Bourke, c 1702 – 1748 Parish priest of Clonulty, Clogher & Moyaliffe and a native of Glenkeen. His life spanned the severest period of the penal laws when aspirants for the priesthood had to seek their education on the continent. He studied in Paris, where he was ordained and where he later became a professor of theology. During his apostolate as parish priest, he lived in Rossmore and celebrated the liturgy in the humble mass houses in each of the former parishes of Clonulty, Clogher & Moyaliffe The mounting of the original headstone has been done by Clogher Community Council. 1996."
